ROAR OF GIANT GUNS HERALDS VAST BATTLE IN FLANDERS IS BELIEF

Berlin Claims British Smash On Right Flank Crushed By Kaiser's Armies

HAIG'S GRIP ON LENS GRADUALLY TIGHTENS

New Successes Are Attained By Germans On Rumanian Front Near Focsani

PETROGRAD, Aug. 8.—Russia has resumed the offensive on the Bessarabian and Austrian frontier, it was today announced. Two villages were captured, as well as 300 prisoners.

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—"A strong British attack along the Belgian coast was repulsed by German troops," a statement issued today by the war office declares.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The roar of big guns as they hurled their tons of lead against the German lines was distinctly heard last night within thirty miles of London.

Windows in Southend, on the Thames and this distance from London, vibrated from the concussion of the bombardment.

The sound of the guns was the most distinct that has been heard since the start of the war.

With the report of Field Marshal Haig announcing active artillery firing during the night in the region of Ypres, and raiding on the coast, speculation was rife as to the possibility of the allied drive against the German lines being resumed.

Ypres is about 100 miles on an air line, from Southend.

The intense bombardment heard in England served to increase the general feeling of expectancy of impending big events. Field Marshal Haig was silent as to operations about Lens today, but further word from that section was anxiously awaited.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—An air of expectancy for big things on both land and sea prevailed in London today.

Slowly, but surely, the grip on Lens, the great coal center of France, held by the Germans, is tightening. The Canadians are now astride the Lens-Bethune road and within striking distance of the positions in which the enemy will make his last stand to hold the present line.

The official silence regarding operations in Flanders during the past twenty-four hours is regarded as probably holding greatest significance.

In the meantime speculation has been revived in London as to whether the German fleet may not be planning another sally into the North Sea. Frequent appearance of small German vessels from their bases is being reported. British scout ships and aeroplanes have brought in word of sighting these warships, though no actual engagements have been reported.

The Flanders battle is following the course of the usual British offensive—a violent attack, then a period given over to consolidation and new preparation, followed by a renewed assault.

As further comment of German newspapers on the new cabinet appointments were received today, the first British impression that ministerial changes were of little significance remained unchanged. The junkers retain full control, it is now apparent, successful solution of the Russian problem is centering more and more on Kerensky. Reports that the "Lloyd-George of Russia" is showing the effects of the terrific strain under which he has been laboring, caused some concern. Kerensky is not strong. He has, in fact, been described as a near invalid and it is realized that the efforts that he has been putting forth have undoubtedly taken years from his life.

4 YANKEE FLIERS WIN CLASH WITH SUPERIOR FORCE BY W. S. FORREST

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Aug. 8.—A thrilling air battle in which four members of the Lafayette escadrille successfully fought off the famous German "tango squadron" of Baron Richofen, was described in reports received here today from the front.

Lieut. Raoul Lufberry of New York, Sergeant Edward Parsons of Springfield, Mass., Corporal Walter Lovell of Concord, Mass., and Corporal Harold Willis of Boston, comprised the

How Liner Shelled Submarine Is Told By Malcolm Tedford

Two letters, written from "somewhere in France," have been received by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Tedford of this city from their son, Malcolm, who is now with the American Field Service. The first of the letters follows:

July 6, 1917.

Dear People: Rushed to death, this is the first minute that I have had to myself since I arrived in Paris, and it will be the last until I return again, for we leave tomorrow to go into service. Can't tell you where. There are so many things I want to tell you that I hardly know where to begin, but I suppose it will be when we had a little submarine scare.

On July 3, our most dangerous day, we sighted a submarine. The old boat began to cut circles and S's in the water, zig-zagging from one angle to another. The guns forward and aft were pointed in the direction of the submarine. It came out of the water for only a minute. We shot at it twice. It then sank, and we put up top speed and continued on our way. We didn't sink it, but it was certainly exciting. We—everyone—had to stay on deck with all clothes on the last two nights and, believe me, we were tired when we landed. Well, we landed at any rate and then we marched through the streets of the town for about five miles, carrying our big American flag. Every one on the streets was yelling, clapping hands and shouting "Viva America." But really it was a pitiful sight. Hundreds and hundreds of little chaps, from 3 to 7 years, all dressed in black in mourning capes, etc.; women, all bent with work, prodding the streets, pulling dump carts like the one at home; women street car conductors and motormen.

Then we reached the depot and, after getting instructions, we left for a dinner. It was 7 o'clock p. m. We hunted for a meal. My, what a job it was—really a hardship. We found a little joint and ate, but it was hardly eatable food—no bread (all black or brown, French stuff), no butter at all, very little sugar, lots of wine. They think one can live on wine. At 10 o'clock we left for————on a third-class military train—nothing but hard benches, eight in a compartment, making a very crowded bench. No one could sleep, so we stayed up all this night, too, making three nights in a row. Well, we were tired when we arrived here. From that moment until now I've been on the run.

Paris is a lovely place; old, awful old, but very artistic, very pretty. I don't care much for the streets as they are all cobble-stones and very narrow in places, and very crowded, but one can get about with an interpreter, and, believe me, I go with the fellows who speak French. The town is literally filled with soldiers in uniform, here for a reprieve or because of injury and recuperation. Some are terrible sights—no legs, no arms, half their heads shot off, and all that. Why, it at first sickened me. Now I've become somewhat hardened and do not notice it much. It seems as though every one here merely plays with death and takes it as a matter of course.

My opinion of France has absolutely changed. It is a beautiful place. Really, what we have seen of it is really beautiful. I don't blame them for dying for France. One sort of becomes full of that spirit for France—all for France—because it is they who have suffered the brunt. Why, there are no men here at all. It appears terrible.

There is enough to eat but there is no waste. Everything costs quite a bit, but very reasonable, very, because here there is a scarcity. In New York, prices have risen on account of war (as an excuse). Here it is because of necessity. But every one here seems to well stand the gaff and every one is anxious to do his bit.

There are airplanes continually flying over us here. It gives one the real spirit of war, all right.

MALCOLM.

Horrible Suffering of People of France Bared

Following is the second letter written by Malcolm Tedford to his parents:

Somewhere in France,
July 11, 1917.

Dear folks: There is a bit of news that I want to tell you, namely, that after we arrived in Paris we told the office there that we left California with the full intention of driving ambulances for a period of six months, and that we believed we had a right to stick to our first agreement. Therefore, through the diplomacy of some of our "bunch" we finally got what we wanted and now find ourselves in a training camp for ambulances, with the privilege of returning home six months from the day we left New York. This is a great deal better than driving auto trucks for the period of the war, as I told you when I wrote from New York. Therefore we are doing exactly what we planned to do when we left home.

Even though it will be my privilege to come home, I don't know yet whether I'll do it or not, for I like France. I like the people, the country—Oh, everything. Paris is the most beautiful big city I have ever seen. Of course at this time of the year everything is green and pretty. A wonderful park system and along the banks of the Seine some of the most beautiful trees grow. Well, I think I told you most all about the city in my last letter, which was letter No. 1 from France proper. This is letter No. 2.

Everything is going along nicely. We are well quartered and well fed, not worked very hard, and I am feeling fine. I never felt better in my life. We are so situated that we can hear the big guns roar, and we see flying machines flying about all the time. Why, every one has become so accustomed to these men of the air that he pays no attention to them any more. I'd love to tell you conditions just as I see and hear about them. It would do no one any harm, and I know you all would be interested, but I'm afraid you wouldn't hear from me at all if I started out to give my own views.

This much I will say, and I think I am within bounds, that the people of France have suffered a great deal, much more than you can even believe without actually seeing the people. As I have explained before, women are tilling the fields, plowing the ground and cutting the grain. There are a great many little chaps working very hard, too. It seems as though these people work all the time. They are to be found in the fields early in the morning and late at night. It was last night when a few of us were returning from the village about 9 o'clock, and some of the industrious old women—for they are old—were still out in the field pitching hay.

We need men in France—men. Tell Mrs. Nealley that there are plenty of little orphans to be had and that it would be easy money to bring home some half dozen—bright little chaps, too. Last night we were in the village and two little fellows followed us around telling us they had nowhere to go, etc. Most of them can speak a little English. It isn't hard to get about here, even though it is much to one's advantage to know French.

There is one thing that I wish very much, and that is fruit. I want you, mother, to put up some apricot jam, with pineapple, in small jars—strawberry, marmalade, etc., and send over. I haven't a good address as yet and will not have for about two or three weeks, but when I send you our address, forward some fruit via American Express. It is the very best company. It has its agency in Santa Ana with Wells-Fargo. One can't buy that jam here, as there is no sugar in the country, and none is shipped in.

Now I believe some of the stories told about German brutality. Yesterday we saw two little girls with no hands at all; merely evidence of the German invasion through this part of the country.

I must close and go to drill.

With love,

MALCOLM.

My address is still 2 Rue Raynouard, Paris, France.

DRAFT CONSPIRACY IS TO BE CHARGED

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—U. S. Atty. J. W. Preston will ask the federal grand jury Friday to return indictments charging conspiracy to resist the draft, against Attorney Daniel O'Connell of San Francisco and the Rev. Robert Whitaker of Los Gatos. O'Connell is accused of preparing treasonable statements in claims for exemption.

Christopher McCullough, auto salesman, was arrested when he filed one of O'Connell's exemption claim affidavits and refused to submit to physical examination. He answered his arrest by suing Max J. Kuhl, chairman of the exemption board, and policeman W. H. Mills, for $10,000 damages and $500 daily loss of business, alleging "malice and oppression."

U. S. TROOPS TO BE SENT ITALY AND RUSSIA, SENATE TOLD

Next Yankee Soldiers to Go Aboard Will Go to Aid Slavs—Sen. Lewis

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—That the next American troops to go abroad will be sent to Russia and that others soon will go to Italy, was the declaration of Senator J. Hamilton Lewis on the floor of the Senate this afternoon.

RUSH SUCCOR TO MEN BESEIGED BY APACHES

Globe, Arizona, Citizens Arm Selves and Speed to Rescue In Mountains

GLOBE, Ariz., Aug. 8.—Fearing nine white men, besieged in a dugout in the Sierra Anchas mountains by a mob of 100 Apache Indians and Mexicans on the war path, will be massacred, citizens of Globe, heavily armed, formed a posse at daybreak today and are rushing to the rescue of the men.

The nine men have only a few rounds of ammunition, it was reported here early today. They were driven into the dugout early in the day by the Indians and Mexicans, who went on the war path yesterday. They have fired the forest on the mountain slopes.

As a result of an uprising of the Apaches wto of the biggest asbestos mines in the district are paralyzed.

Deputy Sheriff Dan Armer headed a band of mounted rangers who started for the scene of the disturbance. Following additional call for help and the report of the danger of a massacre, cowboys and citizens from the Totono section formed a second rescue party, which left at dawn this morning.

Owing to the tortuous mountain roads to be traversed, it is not expected that the first rescue party will reach the Sierra Anchas before 1 o'clock this afternoon.

65 P. C. OF THOSE CALLED CLAIM EXEMPTION

Returns From 15 Cities Over United States Tabulated In New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Draft returns from fifteen cities in all sections today showed an average of 65 per cent of the men called for the national army claims exemption. This is an improvement over earlier scattering returns, when exemptions averaged 75 per cent.

New York has examined the largest number of men to date—38,076. Of this total, 87,789 were found eligible. Roscoe Conkling, deputy attorney general, estimated today 70 per cent of those called are asking exemption. Conkling is investigating charges that slackers have repeatedly offered bribes to exemption board members.

Chicago showed 12,402 examined, 3032 rejected, 6095 claiming exemption, fifty-eight had false addresses and eighty-one ignored the call.

Claims for exemption averaged 88 per cent in some Kansas City districts. Many districts are already calling their extra quotas.

In Indianapolis, 1367 of 2561 claimed exemption. There were 722 accepted and 472 rejected on physical grounds.

Philadelphia reported 1829 examined, 1107 accepted and 701 rejected. Available figures showed slightly under half those accepted asked exemption.

There is in the United States approximately three and one-half million motor cars at the end of the first half of the year 1917.

NEW DRAFT CALL TO GET COUNTY'S QUOTA APPEARS INEVITABLE

Local Board Certain to Weed Out Many Claims For Exemption

Out of 264 men examined by the doctors of Orange County Exemption Board No. 1 up to today, but forty-one out of the 184 who have passed the physical examinations have no exemption claims to urge.

Of the 264 examined, eighty failed to pass the physical examination and 184 passed. Of the 184, 143 have asserted that they have exemption claims to make. Most of the claims have been filed. Others will be filed tomorrow.

There is now little question but what the exemption board is going to weed out a lot of the claimants. In order to get the district's quota of 181 men, the board will have to scrutinize the claims for exemption far more closely than was at first thought probable.

"We have got to hold them down," said a member of the board. "We have no desire to do anything but complete justice and to follow the orders of the government."

The examination of the first call of 420 will be completed this afternoon. That is, the examination of all of those who have shown up for physical examination. Another call seems inevitable.

At this stage, it appears that fully 100 have failed to show up for examinations or to file alien claims.

A cursory examination of the lists shows that a large proportion of those who have not shown up are Mexicans. It also shows that a goodly number are men who are already in the federal service.

Just as soon as the physical examinations are over the exemption board will go over its lists and determine from what information is obtainable why those who have not responded failed to do so.

THIRTEEN TODAY ARE NOT ASKING EXEMPTION

BIG POWER IS VOTED WILSON 76 TO 7

Measure Is Most Drastic Ever Passed In This Country

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—After many weeks of debate the Senate this afternoon at 4 o'clock adopted the food control bill.

The measure is the most sweeping legislation ever passed in this country. It will go to the President for his signature Friday.

The bill as adopted contains government control over food and fuel and the implements required for their production. It penalizes hoarding, waste and destruction of foodstuffs to increase prices. It authorizes the President to requisition factories, foods, fuels, feeds and other supplies necessary for the army and navy and public use. It authorizes the President to purchase for cash at reasonable prices wheat, flour, meal, beans and potatoes.

Thirty days after the law is approved no foods, fruits, food materials or feeds will be used in the production of distilled spirits for beverage purposes.

The President is authorized to stop the production of or limit the alcoholic contents of beers and wines when he deems it necessary.

The bill appropriates $162,500,000. The vote was 76 to 7.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—President Wilson will soon know exactly what may be expected of Russia in the great war. With the return to Washington today of the Russian commission headed by Elihu Root, plans involving the "baby republic" will be threshed out.

Members of the commission are under orders to discuss specific needs of Russia in no way until official report has been submitted to Secretary Lansing. Reorganization of the American army units, reducing the present division force from 28,000 to 19,000 was under way today. This action is taken to conform with the system followed by the allies, regarded far more wieldy than that used by the United States army.

After weeks of almost unceasing talk, the Senate this afternoon will pass the administration food bills.

Withonly a few speeches remaining, the upper body proposes to vote at 4 p. m. The bill will go to the President probably Friday, then Herbert Hoover, food conservator, will start at once exercising his belated authority.

The War Department is debating just what shall be done with drafted negroes, with the prospect that they will not be brigaded with whites.

FREE SERBIA IS ONE DEMAND OF LLOYD-GEORGE

Britain Will Not Be Satisfied Until Nation Is Independent, He Says

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The independence of Serbia will be one of England's demands that must be met before peace is possible.

Premier Lloyd-George made this clear this afternoon in an address at a luncheon in honor of the premier of Serbia.

"Serbia is entitled to full reparation and must get it," Lord Cecil declared, following Lloyd-George.

BUSINESS MEN HEAR ADDRESS ON EFFICIENCY

Lecturer Gives Pointers and Illustration at City Hall Here

The changes brought about in business by the installation of modern business methods were clearly portrayed last night at the city hall when P. O. Warren, lecturer of the National Cash Register Company, told of the causes for loss in retail business, and how they could be remedied. The council chambers were comfortably filled with merchants and clerks, who were well repaid for the time spent. The suggestions given, illustrated and emphasized as they were, by stereopticon slides and motion pictures, containing valuable suggestions with hegard to business methods, which cannot but be of service to the men who listened.

"Inefficient business methods cause the great majority of losses," said Warren. He then cited figures to prove this fact, showing that last year 11,900 merchants failed. "This means forty failures every business day; one every 15 minutes."

Particular emphasis was laid on the value of newspaper advertising to the retail merchant in the lecture. Warren said in part:

"More people can be reached oftener and at less expense by newspaper advertising than by any other medium. But don't spend a few dollars advertising, and then say advertising doesn't pay. Make advertising a continuous policy of your store, and you will not be disappointed with results." The proper method of preparing newspaper advertisements was shown by window display problems, efficiency of clerks, store organization, selling methods, system in retail business, and delivery problems were also discussed in an interesting manner.

Interesting pictures were shown of the buildings, grounds and equipment of the National Cash Register Company at Dayton, O. The experience of this company over a period of thirty-two years was the basis of the lecture. Through a study of co-operation between employer and employe, this great company has worked out a system that can scarcely be equalled for efficiency and it is spreading this information broadcast throughout the country through the use of these pictures and the motion films.

Warren advocated the organization of all business, even to the small store with only three or four clerks, upon the pyramid basis, as he called it, with the clerks supporting the owner, giving him time to supervise the work from the top rather than uphold the whole thing from the base himself. Each clerk should be given his own responsibility, according to Warren. Schools for employes, in which the merchant talks over the problems of the business with his subordinates, was also advocated.

An interesting feature of the entertainment given last night was the film portraying the troubles of the merchant who attempted to run his business along old lines of inefficiency. The picture showed that by eliminating his leaks and losses the merchant rose to success in a financial way. This film was prepared for the National Cash Register Company by the Essanay company, and experienced actors took the parts of the merchants and clerks shown in the picture.

SINGER'S SON DREADS TO FIGHT GERMANY

PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 8.—"I dread to fight against Germany, and if I can possibly avoid it, I won't," Ferdinand Schumann, son of the famous singer, Mme. Schumann-Heink, told Governor Tom Campbell today, seeking executive intercession.

"All of my people are in the German line. I simply do not know what to do!" The thought of turning shot and shell against his own kinsmen seemed to burden him down. Governor Campbell told Schumann there was nothing he could do.

CRASH VICTIM, T. E. JOHNSON, IS DEAD

The automobile accident at Culver's corner last Sunday afternoon claimed its first victim in the death last night of T. E. Johnson, aged 80, of 420 East Sixth street, Santa Ana.

Johnson, who was riding in the car driven by his son-in-law, S. A. Shallenberger of Los Angeles, received a compound fracture of the left leg, and numerous cuts and bruises when the machine was struck by a car driven by D. E. Llewellyn of the Llewellyn Iron Works of Los Angeles. On account of his age Johnson was unable to rally from the effects of the accident.

Johnson was a well known resident of this city, where he has lived since 1876.

TEUTON MAILED FIST AIMED AT SWITZERLAND

Mountain Republic's Defi of Kaiser's Loan Demand May Bring Crisis

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Germany may try to trample Switzerland under foot and swing her armies around the southern end of the west front, unless the mountain republic yields to Teutonic importunities for a loan.

That is the dismal prospect international authorities saw today in Germany's pressure for gold in return for coal supplied Switzerland. Should such a situation come it would mean great re-adjustment of existing battle lines and while perhaps not fatal, it would at least be discouraging to the west front situation.

The fact that Switzerland is resisting the loan proposal came as a surprise here. Switzerland, composed of German, French and Italian stock chiefly, is regarded pro-German, and Germany several months ago used her as a go-between to make a pseudo peace offer to the United States. In the circumstances authorities here are not entirely able to fathom the present situation.

Incidentally there has been suggestion here that the United States would do well to swing her forces into the southern end of the western front, flanking Switzerland. Such a move, experts hold, would tend to keep Switzerland in line, inasmuch as the influence of her sister republic would probably prevent her being too friendly with Germany.

Aside from the possibilities that Germany will strike Switzerland if she stands firm in her refusal, authorities here point out that Germany's demands for a loan indicate the growing financial strain withia the empire. Further evidence came recently in State Department advices showing there had been some decrease in Germany's gold reserve—a thing hitherto unknown.

With a drain going on, the pressure sooner or later will become too much for Germany and she will collapse, say the experts.

DE SAULLES' SLAYING SHATTERS ROMANCE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—Had not the passion of Bianca de Saulles for her son caused her to kill her husband in New York, Miss Ruth Shepley, actress, now playing here, would have been the bride of "Jack" de Saulles before many months passed, her friends declared today.

They said she was affianced to the former Yale athlete who was killed Friday by his divorced wife.

Miss Shepley is devotedly loyal to the memory of De Saulles.

"When they called Jack de Saulles the most popular man on Broadway it makes me want to cry 'unfair'," she told an interviewer. "Jack had the personality to be the most popular man in New York, but not in the sense that 'Broadway' popularity is usually taken to mean. He was a clean man and he led a clean man's life. He hated cabarets. Dancing bored him. His popularity was due to character, his unfailing kindness to everyone."

BIG FILM CLASH IS SCHEDULED FOR TODAY

2000 'Supes' Slated to Help Theda Bara In Taking of Cleopatra Picture

The battle of Actium, the big spectacle which has been eagerly awaited for the past week by hundreds of Orange county people who made frequent trips to East Newport and Balboa in the hope of seeing the set to on Newport Bay, only to be disappointed, was to take place today.

That the big mimic struggle actually would take place today was practically assured when thirteen carloads of supernumeraries passed through Santa Ana en route to Newport on the Southern Pacific.

At the main costuming tent of the Fox film company at Balboa this morning it was stated that plans had been made for outfitting 2000 people with costumes today.

The battle scene, which will be part of Theda Bara's movie, "Cleopatra," was scheduled to take place on upper Newport Bay, or, as it is sometimes referred to, "the Lake."

Numbers of Santa Ana people were planning today to be present when the big clash occurred, intending to take the Palisades road to the head of the bay, whence it was hoped a good view of the proceedings might be had.

That those who work as supernumeraries for the movies run risks is evidenced by the report that several accidents occurred on the bay yesterday. One man sustained a broken arm and another is said to have sustained a fractured leg.

The Fox people have their own physician and four men are employed as police officers.

According to promise we have offered from time to time health-giving "menus" suitable to the different members of the household, and now we come to the last, "The wife and mother." Somebody has said that "a mother love is the only virtue that did not suffer by the fall of Adam. True it is that the unselfish love of a wife and mother is the crowninig glory of the race. Adversity and sorrow may come with all their terrible force only to find her affections clinging the closer. Think of the storms which have pelted into her cheerful face without souring it. We rarely find a wife and mother whose gentle spirit has been worn threadbare and unlovely by trials. A sweet old mother is common. A sweet old father is not so common. Shall we give the menu now? No! What would be the use. You think so little of self you would pass it up without a glance. So we shall end with "God bless the good wives and mothers.

RAY PETTY TO BE SPEAKER AT FLAG RAISING

A. Ray Petty, well known in this city, where his father was once pastor of the First Baptist church, is to be the speaker at a patriotic service and flag raising at the United Presbyterian church tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock.

Stirred by the feeling of patriotism that fills the nation, and realizing that the church should be a leader in displaying this spirit, the members of the United Presbyterian congregation have secured a fine flag which they will raise over their church building tomorrow evening.

The exercises, which are open to the public, are to be held on the church steps, the audience gathering on the lawn and walks in front of the building at Sixth and Bush streets. A stirring program of patriotic music and a flag reading by Miss Fay Penn will form the preliminary part of the program. The flag will be raised into position by J. P. Thompson, one of the G. A. R. men of the congregation.

The principal address of the evening will be given by A. Ray Petty. Petty will be remembered in Santa Ana by many people who will be glad to avail themselves of the opportunity to hear him speak. He was formerly boys' secretary of the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A., leaving that position to take up work among men and boys in the Temple Baptist Church in Los Angeles. At the present time he is pastor of a large downtown institutional church in New York City. Petty is visiting in this city with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Tedford.

FLANDERS ROAR OF GUNS HEARD NEAR LONDON

Lafayette patrol engaged in the fight. Far outnumbered, the Americans maneuvered, dipped and kept their machine guns going until finally able to elude the Germans. Parsons and Willis escaped only by calling into play all the acrobatic stunts they knew. Their final dash to safety was with a fancy spring-nose dive of thousands of feet.

The German "tango squadron" is always quickly identified in the air, owing to the unusual marking of its machines.

The wings of the aeroplanes are black while the bodies and tails are scarlet.

The Lafayette patrol was eight miles in German territory when they encountered the "tangoers." The Germans immediately began to close in and then followed a half hour fight, as lively as has been reported in months.

Lufberry had five distinct fights as he wheeled and maneuvered high up in the air. Lovell and Willis each fought off three machines, which came charging and firing on them. Up above the fighting "field" was Parsons. The latter was assigned to the task of protecting the fighters in seeing that no enemy reinforcements came up. As the fight progressed, two and finally four, German monoplanes succeeded in mixing in the fight. They detoured high in the air, despite Parsons' efforts and for a time had the Lafayette fliers completely cut off from withdrawal to their lines.

The real fight to avoid being brought down or forced to alight behind the German lines then began. Lufberry fought his way through the enemy and while Parsons and Willis were doing the same thing, mixing their shot with acrobatics, Lovell climbed high over the Germans and peppered them with his machine gun.

The escape of the Americans was due to their coolness and judgment and also to the fact that they had better machines. The Lafayette machines were much faster than the German.

TEUTONS HACK WAY AHEAD ON RUMANIAN FRONTIER

BERLIN, Aug. 8.—Further successes on the Rumanian frontier, north of Focsani, were today reported by the war office.

"We extended our lines after bitter fighting," said the statement.

"In the wooded Carpathians the Austrians stormed and captured several strongly defended mountain summits," the report said.

CANNON HURL DEATH ON FRONT ALONG AISNE

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Great artillery activity on the Aisne front, beginning last night, was today reported by the French war office. East of Vauxhaillon and west of the California plateau enemy detachments attacked the French lines but were hurled back, said the statement.

STARVATION IS FACED BY MEXICAN HUNDREDS

FULLERTON, Aug. 8.—Sander Gardiner and wife are here from Mexico for a few weeks' visit with the Gardiner families.

Gardiner is a mining engineer located near Mexico City and has charge of one of the largest mines in the southern republic.

He says conditions are improving in some parts of Mexico but that on account of the drought in the early spring crops are a failure in many sections and that hundreds of Mexicans will suffer from hunger unless assisted by the United States.

MYSTERY VEILS N. Y. SOCIETY MAGAZINE

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Every once in a while somebody does something nobody else ever thought of doing, and puts it over. All of which leads us to The Chronicle, the latest magazine published in New York, which has been called "of, for and by society." The publishers won't admit this phrase is the proper one to apply to it, but the fact has leaked out that certain persons who sought to become subscribers were turned down because their family histories would not stand the close scrutiny of the social microscope.

The Chronicle is published monthly, at the rate of $12 a year, and is not on public sale. Just who the backers of the project are no one seems to know. It has been said that a certain group of well-known women got together and said, "Isn't it about time that something be done to kill the idea that society does nothing but engage in 'butterfly balls,' 'monkey dinners,' 'all night bathing parties,' and the like? Let's get out a magazine that will show we have real thoughts and and are doing real things. And let's keep it a secret."

And here enters James W. Pennock, Jr., formerly of Syracuse, N. Y., a dapper little man who talks highbrowish and wears suits, ties and hose of the same shade of green, brown, violet or gray. He is the man you are referred to when you call at the Chronicle office at 507 Fifth avenue.

"Yes, I'm in charge here," he drawls. It's immaterial who the publishers of the Chronicle are," in answer to the direct question. "Oh, no, it would be impossible for you to see a copy. They're for our subscribers only, and, you know, our subscribers are invited to subscribe. Our contributors? Well, they're our subscribers. That is one of the basic ideas concerning the Chronicle. The terms, contributors and subscribers are synonymous."

The editor is Richard Fletcher, who says: "Fawncy that, naw," and calls you "Old Top." He's only been over from London a short while. And he says he "cawn't" tell you much about The Chronicle.

He did reveal the names of some of the subscriber-contributors during the first five months of the dollar-a-copy magazine's life.

Here they are: Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Reginald C. Vanderbilt, Jay Gould, the Countess of Kingston, Sir Frederick Milner, Bart., Mrs. Muriel C. S. Draper, Whitney Warran, Mrs. William Bayard Van Rensselaer, Mrs. Edward R. Stettinius, Mrs. William Astor Chanlor, and Gen. Leonard Wood.

"Most of these men and women have never written for any other magazine," added Fletcher. "Should we ever decide to send copies to the papers I am sure you would find The Chronicle news even to them," added the editor.

Anyway, how is The Chronicle ever going to convince the public that society is 100 per cent pure if the public is never to see The Chronicle?

GAS COMPANY NOT EXTEND ITS LINES, CANNOT GET PIPE

Condition of Market Brings About Decision on Part Of Officials

The Southern Counties Gas Company states that it has received telegraphic advice from its vice-president in Chicago, the company's representative who places contracts with eastern pipe mills, to the effect that the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company, which has the company's contract for the 1917 pipe supply, has been ordered by the government to deliver no pipe to any of its customers without an order signed by a government agent releasing such pipe.

On account of the very large amount of pipe which will be required to supply gas, water and other commodities to various training camps throughout the country, the government evidently has found it necessary to take this step to conserve pipe for these urgent purposes.

The Southern Counties Gas Company says that it regrets that this condition of the pipe market places it in the position of being unable to make extensions to reach new consumers. If the indications coming from government officials are correct it will probably be utterly impossible for the Gas Company to make any further extensions for domestic consumers during the current year, or until such time as the emergency has passed and pipe for ordinary uses again becomes available.

It is a fact that the Gas Company contemplates extensions and improvements for the benefit of the Naval Reserve Training Station and Submarine Base at San Pedro. The Company is also running gas mains to the Fort McArthur Cantonment and to the Army Inoculation Camp near Monrovia. Fortunately the Gas Company has a sufficient amount of pipe on hand for these military and naval emergencies.

Larger sized mains will be required to supply the Ship Building Plant at San Pedro, which is working on large government contracts under the direction of the Ship Building Board.

It is believed that the Gas Company will find practically no difficulty in securing pipe and materials for military and naval purposes but there seems to be little possibility of obtaining pipe for the peace pursuits of the Company for some time to come.

MAKING CHANGE

Is it the duty of a public service corporations to make change for its patrons? A New York court has decided in the negative. Suit was brought against the Western Union Telegraph Company by a man who was inconvenienced by the refusal of an operator to accept a message because the sender tendered a $5 bill and the operator had no change. The court declared:

"A telegraph company has no reason to anticipate any particular hardship if a particular officer has no change. The sender should be required to tender the exact amount of the lawful rate to obtain the service of the corporation."

This is substantially the position taken by Ohio courts in passing on a peculiar practice of the Cleveland street car system. The legal trolley fare in Cleveland is three cents—provided the passenger has three pennies or a three-cent ticket. The conductor will make change if he is asked to, but in that case the passenger is obliged to drop a nickel in the fare box. The plan is designed to save the conductor's time by making the public buy tickets, of which strips of five are sold for 15 cents.

There's no telling how far the principle may be carried if the New York decision stands. We may eventually be required to have the exact change whenever we patronize any public service corporation. If private business institutions should adopt the policy, the public would find itself in a difficult situation. Suppose we had to "tender the exact amount" whenever we bought anything from anybody. How would we ever get the change to tender?

There is hope for the ultimate consumer in the dissenting opinion rendered by one of the New York judges who sat on this case. He insists that "a public service corporation must be prepared to furnish change to a reasonable amount, such reasonableness to be judicially determined." That accords with the popular view.

QUILTING BEES

Knitting is not the only one of grandmother's accomplishments that is to be revived, if news in the eastern society columns may be trusted.

The supply of wonderful old quilts and comforters and spreads that grandmother and her girl friends made is about gone. That kind of heirloom doesn't last forever, and the modern bride must go without hand-made quilts unless quilting bees again become fashionable.

Those quilts of grandmother's and great-grandmother's were beautiful, indeed. From the light, puffy, tied comforter, to the carefully hand-stitched patch work quilt, all were works of wonder to the eyes of the present generation. There were famous patterns that grandmother borrowed and loaned among her friends—the basket quilt, the album quilt, and many others. There were the rows and rows of unbelievably fine stitches, little quilted squares and diamonds, elaborate scrolls and graceful patterns too numerous to mention.

It all took time and painstaking effort to do. The girl of today may not have the patience and perseverance to do so much as grandmother did in the days when everything had to be made at home. But it will be fine for her if enough of the custom is revived to teach her the value of sticking to a real task until it is finished.

It's no more than right that our soldiers and sailors should be allowed to write home without stamping their letters. And certainly Congress, with its notorious abuse of the franking privilege for its own members, could not have the nerve to deny it to the nation's defenders. All the letters they write home will cost the Post Office Department incomparably less than the political speeches the lawmakers distribute at public expense, speeches that nobody except fond relatives and over-enthusiastic henchmen read.

STATEMENT OF WORK DONE BY ASSOCIATED CHARITIES MADE BY REV. STEVENSON

The following is a statement of the work of the Associated Charities as made to the City Trustees Monday night by Rev. J. A. Stevenson, pastor of the First Presbyterian church:

Permit me to say a word in answer to two criticisms that have recently been made in regard to the work of the Associated Charities. The first is that "it costs $3.50 to administer $1 of material relief," and the second is that the Associated Charities "turns over a lot of its cases to the Salvation Army."

1. We plead guilty to the first charge. It is precisely the basis on which we are trying to carry on our work in this community. The figures given are correct. We would consider it a cause for congratulation if we could make it four dollars to one dollar!

We have been trying ever since we organized to get people to understand that the Associated Charities is not primarily an agency for giving out material relief, but a movement repsenting a distinctly new conception of philanthropy, as different from the old "charity" as a Cadillac Eight differs from the first "horseless carriage." We give relief as "first aid to the wounded" pending investigation, and we give relief regularly when required. But we do insist that the value of our service in the community shall NOT be measured by a column of dollars and cents expended in material relief. Our business is to put people back onto their feet where they will not need relief, and this is what we mean by constructive philanthropy, and constructive philanthropy calls for expert service, and expert service has to be paid for.

By way of concrete illustration of the character of our work I beg to submit the following cases taken from our office records. They are not exceptional, but typical:

1. A man in the last stages of tuberculosis, with five children, eldest a girl of thirteen, heroically trying to nurse the sick father and care for the other children. Mother dead. When the case was reported to the Associated Charities the secretary took charge, arranged to have the father taken to the county hospital, got a woman to clean up the house, interviewed the landlord about the rent, had the children examined to see whether they were infected with tuberculosis, and had them taken to the detention home, hunted up the relatives of the family, attended to the disposition of the household effects and looked after the numberless other details incident to the case. How much material relief was expended by the Associated Charities? About two dollars! How much time did the secretary give to the case? About a week. Is such a case to be measured by the $2 expended in material relief?

2. A family of seven children. Father has steady employment, but finds it hard to feed and clothe a family of that size. The Associated Charities has provided most of the clothing and shoes for the children during the winter and spring. How much did it cost to do this? Not a cent. The public generously donated clothes and partly worn shoes, and out of this supply these children have been adequately fitted out. Is this a case to be measured by the dollar standard?

3. Some time ago a man and his wife got stranded in Santa Ana. He was a skilled workman, but could not find employment at his trade in this state. Through inquiry and correspondence the secretary learned where there was an opportunity for work in his trade. The matter was taken up with the county and with a local lodge and with the aid of the Associated Charities, each contributing one-third of the expense, the man and his wife were provided with transportation to the place and found permanent employment. Are we to be judged by the mere money expenditure in this case, or by the fact that we worked out the problem of putting a family back into the normal ranks of self-support and independency?

4. We have in many instances exposed professional paupers who were systematically working the community. For example, we found a family that for a long time had been receiving aid from four different churches, not one of the churches suspecting that the family was receiving aid from any other source. The secretary on making this discovery exposed the fraud and requested the churches to cut off all relief, which was done, and the man went to work. Can you measure the value of this service by the dollar standard?

We aim to be a clearing house of information for just such cases, and we keep in our office a complete record of every family or individual dealt with.

5. One of our cases was that of a man injured in an industrial accident. In the settlement made under the industrial accident law we felt that he had not been justly compensated. Through our efforts the matter was brought before the Industrial Accident Commission, and as a result the man was awarded additional compensation of over $100. Pending his illness the family had been under our care. How is the value of this service to be estimated?

6. Another case, that of a blind girl whose parents through ignorance objected to her being sent to an institution for the education of the blind. The family lived several miles outside Santa Ana and the request to investigate the matter came through the Los Angeles Charities. The secretary made two trips to the home of the family and spent an hour on the first visit in explaining away the prejudices and fears of the parents, and finally gained their consent. The girl is now in the institution receiving education and training which will enable her to become self-supporting. How much money was expended? Not a cent. The only expense was gasoline and the wear of auto tires, and this was donated.

7. A class for the instruction of the blind has been formed in Santa Ana and Orange, meeting twice a month. It is conducted by an instructor in the pay of the State Library. The work was initiated by the secretary of the Associated Charities. How much did it cost in dollars and cents? A few postage stamps at the beginning and some stationery. But it took a good deal of the secretary's time to put it through and hunt up the blind people.

In this connection a comparison with other towns may be of interest. Redlands, with a smaller population than Santa Ana, employs two trained workers in its Associated Charities at a salary of $900 each, or a total of $1,800 a year for salaries—a general secretary and a trained nurse. Santa Ana has but one paid worker, at $900 a year. The Redlands Associated Charities handled 248 cases last year, and the Santa Ana Associated Charities handled 355 cases. Grocery orders given out by Redlands amounted to $122.43, grocery orders given out by Santa Ana $212.29. Redlands paid out last year for auto service $70.90, Santa Ana paid out nothing because the auto service was donated, but if it had been paid for at ordinary rates Santa Ana would have paid out as much as Redlands paid. Redlands paid $53.95 for printing and postage. Our annual report cost the society nothing, being paid for by a private donor. I mention some of these incidental matters in order that the public, who have generously contributed to our work, may know that there is a disposition on our part to keep down expenses to a minimum.

II

As to the relation between the Associated Charities and the Salvation Army. From the outset the relations between these two organizations have been most cordial, especially so since Capt. Carroll came to the city. Capt. Carroll is a member of our board of directors, and the Associated Charities is jointly interested with the Army in maintaining the shelter for transient men on East Third street. When the shelter was moved to its present quarters on East Third street the Associated Charities voted $50 out of its funds to assist in equipping the shelter and nearly the same amount was contributed by one of the members of the board for the same purpose. In addition to this equipment the Associated Charities stands back of the Captain to the extent of making good any monthly deficit that may occur in maintaining the shelter. Several deficits have been made up in this way. The Captain makes monthly reports of the shelter work to the Associated Charities at its regular meetings.

Under this co-operative arrangement all transient men cases are turned over to the Captain, as well as many applications of men for employment, as the Captain is specially equipped for handling such cases. The Captain and the secretary closely cooperate in the matter of securing employment for both men and women and aid each other in every way possible. But the statement that "a lot of cases are turned over to the Salvation Army anyhow" is utterly misleading. No family case or cases requiring the aid rendered specifically by the Associated Charities is ever turned over to the Salvation Army.

E. M. NEALLEY,
President Associated Charities.

With Malice Toward None

The Art of Begging

Begging must be regarded as an art. Some who are skilled in it really live in luxury despite a pretense of poverty. Some ministers hold their jobs because of ability to coax the dollar from its reluctant retreat; and the president of a struggling college may be useless as an instructor if a hustler after the dough. Nor is begging always reprehensible. Often it is the effort to support a worthy cause. The men and women who are striving to raise funds for the suffering people of Europe are entitled to praise, and to be honored by prompt and liberal responses. Still, it is to one of these I feel like inditing a short lecture.

The woman in question, addressing a gathering of women, reached the sympathies of all. She made them cry. She made them dig down until they had contributed many a hat and gown to the hungry babies of Belgium and France. Fine business, and more power to her! But at the close of the address while the audience was wiping its collective eye, the speaker announced that she was stopping at the —— hotel, which happens to be the most expensive and exclusive in the city. Why such a choice? She was asking that others sacrific comforts and even necessities, and she ought to have been in a sacrificing mood herself. If her labor is a labor of love, more modest accommodations would have permitted her to joy in diverting most of her board money to the famished. If she is a paid agent of some humane organization, and her upkeep is reckoned among overhead expenses, then a lot of the coin she woos from retirement is spent on supporting her. Should her distinguished observation happen to take in this paragraph, she is asked to think it over and to refrain from getting het up about the solemn truth.

The Pernicious Bachelor

A Tulare couple, meeting in a beach town after separation, were charged with spooning, brought before a bachelor judge and fined a total of $25. They were engaged and had not met for quite awhile. This was explained to the man on the bench, and never touched him. How could it get through the rhinocerous hide of a male who had reached the age of thirty-one and never been engaged? He should not have been allowed to preside at the hearing. Doubtless even now a successful assault on the decision, so manifestly based on prejudice, could be made. Spooning in public may be an indiscretion, but who says it is a crime wears a stone where a human heart ought to be pulsating in sympathy with all lovers.

Self-Made Stuff

While there are no self-made men, there are a few whose experiences give them a showing of right to set up the claim of being self-made. Examples of individual success are likely to be misleading. Mediocre people get the notion that they can travel the path of genius, and at the place of genius. Of course they can't, and the discovery surprises them. "Any man can become anything he chooses to become" is a frequent statement, distinguished chiefly by the circumstance that there is not a word of truth in it.

Changing a Name

George W. Ochs, of Philadelphia, brother of Adolph Ochs of the New York Times, and himself a publisher, desires to have his name changed to Oakes. His present name is pronounced, when pronounced correctly, as though spelled "Ox," but many accept it now as "Oaks." It must be annoying to have a name susceptible to various renderings, but this is not the ground for the proposed change. Mr. Ochs is an ardent American. The name he bears has a Teutonic suggestion that he regards as a handicap to himself and to his sons after him. His reason seems good enough.

Food Speculation

For many weeks the country has heard there was to be legislation to prevent food speculation. At first it was inclined to believe this.

Drugs and Crime

When a thief declares that he steals only when under the influence of drugs there is every chance that he is a tougher nut than if he told the truth and confessed that he stole because it beat working.

Courtesy

If the coroner's jury says "nobody to blame" after an inquest over the victims of a crossing, a train and an an to, the verdict may be ascribed to the ancient prejudice against saying aught bue good of the dead.

Bluffs at Buying

Why is it that women will purchase and have sent to their homes so much truck they do not want and have no notion of keeping? The question is asked merely as a quest or knowledge, and is not to be construed as a slam.

The Worm Turns

At last a man is suing for breach of promise. His only chance to get damages will lie in procuring a woman jury.

A NEW EXPLOSIVE

Solubite is a new explosive and it is described as being fifty times more powerful than dynamite, and also much safer to handle, as it will explode only by means of a percussion cap.

The inventive genius of a young woman swimmer has added $25,000 annually to her earning capacity. She is Miss Juil M. Riley of Minneapolis, and she has invented a bathing cap with a patent inflated band, which prevents the hair from getting wet. It also acts as a small life-preserver.

PREDICTS MORE BOY BABIES DURING 1918

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8.—That boys will predominate in the birth records for 1918 is the prediction of Dr. Q. J. Rowley of Los Angeles. With America in the war, nature will see to it that warriors will be in the majority in next year's baby crop, he thinks.

"The terrible sacrifices of male life in war deeply impresses the life springs of a nation," he declares. "Nature strives to keep the balance between male and female.

"It is a matter of history that many more male babies than female were born during and following the great wars of history. The thing that has happened before we may expect to happen again.

"Already the male babies are coming faster than the female in Los Angeles. In my own practice in recent months I have noticed that the proportion is 70 per cent boys, 30 per cent girls.

"Of course it is not chance. We see much in nature that cannot be attributed to chance. It is not chance that the weasel in California stays brown the whole year round while in Canada it becomes white in the winter. That's nature working to protect itself."

Although many members of the Los Angeles medical profession are said to agree with Dr. Rowley statistics for Los Angeles show that since the world war began the majority of boys over girls in the birth record has decreased steadily.

PLANT WIZARD FINDS ADVERTISING PAYS

SANTA ROSA, Cal., Aug. 8.—"Advertising pays."

Many a person has heard that slogan but Luther Burbank, who in the past has been far more famous as a plant wizard than as a lover of publicity, is the latest to vouch for its truth.

"Advertising pays" is the way he started a letter to a local paper. "Before the paper had been off the press for an hour, two fine young Santa Rosa boys applied and this morning many more. My only regret is that I cannot employ all the active young boys in Santa Rosa.

"Please discontinue advertisement; however, charge for the week."

That was what happened when Burbank advertised for two boys to work on his gardens near Santa Rosa, and, not realizing how "advertising pays," ordered the ad. to run a week.

OIL FROM CANTALOUPE SEEDS RECOMMENDED

BRAWLEY, Aug. 8.—Were the United States in the position of Germany, oil would be extracted from cantaloupe seeds for food purposes, according to E. M. Chase, chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture, who worked out the 8 to 1 test now used universally to determine the maturity of oranges. He is in Imperial valley, which produces one-third of the American cantaloupe crop, to develop a sugar content test for melons.

"Oil extracted from cantaloupe seeds is excellent for table purposes," says Chase. "It is of good food quality and has a palatable flavor. Experiments have not gone far although they are being continued in the laboratories of the department at Washington. If we were in Germany's position and had to make every ounce of oil and fat count, I believe we would be extracting cantaloupe oil on a large scale."

Fifty-one hundred cars of cantaloupes were shipped from Imperial Valley in six weeks, the largest production of the melons ever made from a single melon district, according to the Imperial county development agent.

STOP WATCHES HELD ON IMPERIAL GROWTHS

HOLTVILLE, Aug. 8.—Stop watches to record the growth of milo and the production of turkey eggs.

That is getting to be the fashion in Imperial valley to decide crop bets.

Clark Oxford and A. L. Ellis, ranchers, boasted that their "corn" came up in three days. A neighbor, M. A. Kendall, took their tale as a challenge. After planting dry, he irrigated the field, the water reaching the land at 8 o'clock Saturday night. Tuesday morning at daylight the corn was up—time two days and eight hours. Before night the milo was two inches high. There are 120,000 acres of milo in the valley this year, the greatest milo acreage of any American county.

Mrs. S. D. Walton, who has a turkey ranch west of Imperial, claims a record for a turkey hen. She says the hen has laid ninety-six eggs since March 20. She says ninety-eight eggs in one year is the turkey record.

NEW STATE LAW BARS CATS, DOGS FROM HOME

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 8.—"Johnny, get that dog out of here!"

That admonition from the ruler of the kitchen to the small boy now bears more than the power of a mere command—it has the strong arm of the law back of it, according to Superior Judge W. H. Waste of Alameda county.

Judge Waste quotes one of the new state laws which reads: "No cow, horse, donkey, pig, goat or other animal shall be allowed inside a home where humans reside."

"The law is so clear," he declared, "and I don't see how the people can get away from it. Anybody with a dog or cat in the house is guilty of a misdemeanor. The statute says "or any other animal' and cats and dogs come under that heading."

BIG TEUTON SPY PLOT BARED IN ARGENTINE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Believing a break with Germany inevitable, Argentine's army of 100,000 men will be mobilized this month, according to reliable information received here this afternoon in government circles. Pro-ally sentiment has been sharpened by revelations of German espionage plots, it was said.

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 8.—An extensive German spy plot, as a result of which ship sailings and other information has been revealed, was discovered by the foreign office here today.

The miscarriage of a letter intended for the head of the espionage organization led to the discovery of the plot. The letter fell into the hands of the foreign office. An investigation is understood to have revealed extended organization of the espionage system.

Numerous suspects are under surveillance of the police today. No arrests have yet been made, however, owing to doubt as to whether the Argentine laws make infliction of penalties for such offenses possible. Despite this, it is believed the government will find some means of suppressing the spies.

4 YANKEES PERISH ON S. S. BELGIAN PRINCE

LONDON, Aug. 8.—Four Americans were among the thirty-eight members of the crew of the steamer Belgian Prince who perished when that vessel was destroyed by a submarine, it was learned today. One American in the crew was saved.

The Americans lost were: William Crissy (or Hughes), Philadelphia; James Shea, Detroit; Thomas Gilmore, Merrick, Mass; Bennie Cain, a negro of Norfolk, Va.

William Snell, a negro of Jacksonville, was rescued.

It is presumed all of the Americans were drowned when the submarine submerged with the Belgian's crew on her deck. Affidavits covering the death of the Americans have not yet been received.

There were only three survivors from the Belgian Prince, the American negro, Snell, and the first and second engineers.

Survivors from the Belgian Prince told a story of extreme cruelty by the Germans. The U-boat commander destroyed all the lifeboats and lifebelts aboard the steamer, stripped the men, took them aboard the submarine, placing them on its surface, closed the hatches and then after traveling on the surface for two miles, suddenly dived, leaving the men to their fate.

Mrs. D. G. Buchheim Treats Pitters to Bountiful Dinner Picnic Yesterday

The warriors who answered the call of the recruiting officer, Mrs. D. G. Buchheim have been doing good work during the past four weeks in caring for her vast crop of apricots.

Mrs. Buchheim, captain of the company, handled her soldiers in a way which showed much study and work. She was ably assisted by her lieutenants, Earl and Roy Spaeth, and Corporal John Thomas.

The way their squad of pickers piled the fruit in camp sometimes made the pitters wonder if they would get it all pitted up in time to start on the next day, but they always got home in time to go to bed at a reasonable hour.

And when the last day came every man, woman and child in the company rallied around Old Glory and a bountifully provided table and worked just as hard on the good "eats" provided as they had on the apricots.

This company voted Mrs. Captain Buchheim and her officers the finest ever to work for and all went home jingling their coin, hoping she will call upon them all again next year to work for her.

Mrs. Buchheim says that if Uncle Sam's soldiers work as hard for him as hers did for her, they will soon come marching home again.

DOUBLE BIRTHDAY

Misses Evelyn Ross and Esther Whitesell Celebrate 18th Anniversary Happily

Misses Evelyn Ross and Esther Whitesell celebrated their eighteenth birthdays by giving a delightful party Tuesday evening at their homes on North Flower street.

The spacious lawns were prettily decorated with Japanese lanterns and out of door games were enjoyed.

At a late hour the guests were invited to the back lawn, where a long table, decorated with stately pink amaryllis and ferns, was invitingly set, Japanese lanterns furnishing an effective lighting effect.

Delicious ice cream and cake were served. At each end of the table, where the hostesses were seated, was a beautifully decorated birthday cake, bearing eighteen candles.

The hostesses received many pretty and appreciated gifts.

Those participating were Mrs. Geo. W. Ross, Mrs. F. O. Whitesell, Mrs. R. Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Harper, Misses Evelyn Ross, Esther Whitesell, Ruth Lanagan, Ruth Whitesell Ellen Ross, Evelyn Buchheim, Maude Whitesell, Mildred Buell, Mildred and Blanche Fewell, Augusta Bucheim; Messrs. MOTOR LEFT GOING IN CHURCH STARTS A FIRE

Someone whose business it was to turn off the motor that furnishes air for the pipe organ at the Spurgeon Memorial Church failed to do so. An old blanket fell off of a shelf and landed on the motor. The bearings of the motor burned out, the apparatus heated up and the blanket caught afire. The blanket made considerable smoke, with the result that when the janitor opened the place this morning a cry of fire was raised, and an automobile was commandeered to bring the firemen. The firemen arrived and dragged out the remains of the blanket.

J. Inwood, superintendent of the Long Beach District and a former pastor of the First Methodist church and Dr. J. G. Kennedy, Presbyterian church, at Smith and Tuthill's chapel at 10 a. m., Tuesday.

Mary Biggs (Mrs. Brockett), was born in Hancock County, Ill., June 4, 1851, and was married to E. C. Brockett at La Harpe, Ill., in 1872. Four children were born to them, all of whom and husband survive her.

In very early life she became a devout Christian and has been a member of the Methodist church ever since and at death was a member of the First Methodist church at Santa Ana.

In "cutting in," Gruner ran into a motorcycle ridden by R. W. Collins of Santa Ana. Collins was not injured. He swore to the complaint against Gruner.

The Call of Santa Ana

Oh come to me near the restless sea,
The blue, the fresh, the ever free,
And list to the song the wild waves sing,
Of sweet content these loved lands bring.

Oh come to me all free from care
And breathe old Ocean's healing air;
Forget the storms, forget the flames,
That mark the desert's wicked reign.

Oh come to me where the blossoms rare,
Fill with fragrance the balmy air,
In this land of fame, this land of rest,
Near the setting sun of the Golden West.

DRAFT RULES STUDIED BY BAY CITY BOARDS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—Members of the county council of defense today are studying federal draft rules and the law to determine whether they have the right to readjust San Francisco's apportionment of draft quotas among its thirteen districts. A readjustment plan has been presented to Adjutant General Borree, who declared the matter one for local exemption boards to settle.

Two more districts started physical examinations today and tomorrow the remaining exemption boards will begin work, setting the entire draft machinery of the city in operation.

An investigation of alleged attempts to evade the draft began today as a result of the return of thirty notices to appear for examination all sent to incorrect addresses. It is believed some registrants falsified addresses.

Scores of Australian and Canadian citizens appeared before boards today offering to waive exemption and join the American army.

PIONEER RESIDENT IS LAID TO REST

A large company of relatives and friends gathered yesterday afternoon at Smith and Tuthill's chapel to pay their last tribute of love and respect to a pioneer and well-loved resident of this city, Mrs. Lucy A. Greenleaf, who passed away after a long and useful life.

Rev. J. W. Tuthill of the Church of the Nazarene, officiated at the services, which were touching and impressive and the bier was surrounded with a profusion of lovely floral emblems.

James Nuckolls beautifully sang "Sweeter Than All" and "Home of the Soul," accompanied by Mrs. Nuckells. Interment was made in Fairhaven cemetery. The pallbearers were the four sons and two grandsons of the decedent.

Mrs. Greenleaf was the widow of the late Dr. E. F. Greenleaf, Sr., and was the mother of ten children, seven of whom are left to mourn her loss. They are Melville S. of Yuma, Robert G., Sterling, Walter and Sue Greenleaf, Mrs. R. L. Lancaster, all of Santa Ana, and Mrs. James Snowden of Olive.

On account of the war and other abnormal conditions, it has been necessary to discontinue much and sacrifice much in the way of art ware. One of the principal things to suffer has been fine dinnerware, china, silverware and the like. Many of the most beautiful patterns are no longer made. Inasmuch as D. L. Anderson Co. had on hand a lot of these charming sets and pieces—now discontinued, they were forced to close them out permanently and finally. This is the reason for their present clean-up sale.—Adv.

REPORT HORNED TOAD REALLY A LIZARD

Interesting Lists Are Made of Snakes, Lizards and Other Crawly Things

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Aug. 8.—People call it a "horned toad" and it's really a lizard; people call it a "California terrapin," and it's really only a mud turtle; people call it a "water-dog," when it really ought to be called a newt or a salamander, or, still more correctly, "notophthalmus torosus."

Thus is popular error overthrown by Professor Joseph Grinnell, director of the University of California Museum of Vertebrate Zoology, and Charles Lewis Camp in an account of the homes and haunts of the 116 species and sub-species of amphibians and reptiles native to California, just issued as part of the seventeenth volume of the "University of California Publications in Zoology."

People who do not like rattlesnakes may regret to learn that six different kinds infest California—the Pacific rattlesnake, found from the Mexican boundary to 8600 feet high in the central Sierra Nevada, and commonest on chaparral slopes and in open country where ground-squirrel burrows abound; the Texas rattlesnake, of the Colorado desert; the red rattlesnake, which inhabits rocky hill-slopes in the extreme southwestern corner of the state; the tiger rattlesnake, of the desert ranges of Inyo county; the Pallid rattlesnake of the Colorado and Mojave deserts, and the sidewinder, or horned rattlesnake, which lives in the sand dunes of the Colorado and Mojave desert.

Lots of Snakes

California is rich in other strange and interesting serpents—the worm snake of Death Valley, the California boa, found between the Arroyo Seco, Mount Wilson, and the Colorado desert; the rubber snake (sometimes called the two-headed snake) which ranges from the Yosemite to Northern California, dwelling in damp canons and on forest floors; five kinds of garter snake—the Marcy, Pacific Coast, Elegant, California, and Western garter snakes; the banded burrowing snake, of which only two specimens have been found in California—in Owens Valley and at Fort Yuma; the desert burrowing snake of the Mojave and Colorado deserts and eastern San Diego county; the Texas ground snake, of which only two specimens have been found in California—near Blythe Junction and near Heber; the sharp-tailed snake, which hides beneath stones in hilly country near the seacoast in Northern California; the Western ring-necked snake, which lives in masses of dead leaves and beneath stones in shaded canons, all the way from San Diego to Shasta county; four kinds of king snake—the Coral, Boyle, Black, and California King snakes; the Long-nosed snake, which lives in the state; the Spotted Night snake, which lives among the rocks, from the San Francisco Bay region to San Diego; the Patch-nosed snake, which lives on sparsely-covered, arid sillsides in Southern California; the Western Yellow-bellied Racer, which prefers grass-lands and wet meadows, almost everywhere in California, except the southeastern deserts; the Red Racer; the California Striped Racer; the Nevada Striped Racer; the Faded snake, which lives in open flat country in Southern California; the Western Gopher snake, found from end to end of California, except west of the desert divides—but not much in the coast regions; the Desert Gopher snake, which ranges the length of the state in the arid regions east of the desert and the Great Basin divides; and the California Tantilla, of which only three stations have been found in California—near Fresno, near Mojave, and near Los Angeles.

The Turtle Crew

The turtles of California are four in species—the Pacific Mud turtle, sometimes known as the California Terrapin, which can be found in most of the streams on the Pacific watershed, from end to end of California; the Desert Tortoise, of the sandy stretches or the rocky hills of the Mojave desert; the Arizona Mud turtle, of the Lower Colorado river; and the Pacific Leatherback turtle, native of the tripical Pacific and Indian oceans, of which two specimens have been captured in Santa Barbara and one on Point Loma, in San Diego county.

When it comes to Newts, Salamanders, frogs, toads, lizards and skunks, the amphibian population of California is enormously varied. For frogs, there are the California, Sierra Nevada, and Sierra Madre yellow-legged frogs; the Western and the Nevada Spotted frogs; the Oregon and the California Red-legged frogs; and the Leopard frog. Then there are two species of the Tree-frog-Hyla; the Pacific Tree-frog, which dwells in rank vegetation and on trees in damp forests and in the burrows of various animals, from the edge of the desert to the Sierra Nevada timber-line, and the Arizona tree-frog, which lives on boulders and canon ledges from the Santa Monica mountains to the Mexican line.

As for toads—there are the Great Plains, Arroyo, Rocky Mountain, California, Northwestern, Nevada, Spotted, and Colorado River toads, and the Yosemite Park toad, found as high as 11,000 feet, inthe meadows and lake margins of lofty Sierra passes. The American Bell-toad has been captured only a single time, at an elevation of 5000 feet, on Craggy Peak in the Siskiyou mountains. The Western Spare-foot toad lives in open country from San Diego northward to San Luis Obispo.

The Water Dog

Among the Newts and Salamanders are the Pacific Coast Newt (commonly known as "Water-dog"), abundant along the streams of the Pacific drainage; the Mount Lyell Salamander, of which only two specimens have been found, at an elevation of 10,800 feet, in Lyell canon, in the Yosemite National park, in heather irrigated from surrounding snowbanks; the Oregon, Yellow-spotted, Del Norte, Arboreal, Rusty, Shasta, Island, Garden, Slender, Tiger, Long-toed, Marbled, and British Columbia Salamanders, and the Farallon Salamander, a species which exists nowhere else in the world except on the South Farallon Island, offshore from the Golden Gate.

Then there are the Banded Gecko, of the southeastern deserts, the Desert Iguana, and Lizards almost beyond counting—the Ocellated Sand Lizard, the Southern Gridiron-tailed, Great Basin Leopard, San Joaquin Leopard, Bailey Collared; Mearns, Northern, Desert, and Southern Brown-shouldered, Long-tailed Uta, Tree Uta, Mountain, Van Denburgh, Pacific Blue-bellied, Tenaya, Fence, Island Blue-bellied, the Desert and Dusky Rough-scaled lizards, the Chuckwalla, of the Rocky desert ranges of southeastern California, and the horned toads, which are really lizards, and of which there are five kinds—the Blainville, California, Desert, Flat-tailed, and Pigmy horned-toads. This pigmy species has been definitely found in only a single place in California—at the western base of Mount Shasta.

But this does not complete the catalogue of the lizards. There are still the California, San Diego, Sierran, and Coast Alligator lizards, the Silvery Footless, Black Footless, Desert, Henshaw, and Island Night lizards, the Desert, California, and Stejneger Whip-tailed lizards, the Belding Orange-throated lizard, and the Western Skink.

The Western Skink may be found on rocky or wooded hillsides, or under stones or dead vegetation in canon bottoms, throughout almost the whole state, save for Sierran ridges above 3000 feet in altitude and save for the southeastern deserts.

Of all these varied creatures, as chronicled by Dr. Grinnell and Mr. Camp and their habitat clearly indicated on a number of distributional maps of California, only the turtle is used by the white man for food. Yet the aboriginal inhabitants of California esteemed many of these amphibians and reptiles as dainty morsels.

Who knows but that food conservation—or the epicure's desire for new gastronomic delights—may yet rescue a place in California menus for "Ragout of Rattlesnake" and "Chuckwalla en casserole."

SICK WOMAN HAD CRYING SPELLS

Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Enhaut, Pa.—"I was all run down and weak inwardly. I had female troubles and nervous feelings and my head bothered me. I would often have crying spells and feel as if I was not safe. If I heard anyone coming I would run and lock the door so they would not see me. I tried several doctors and they did not help me so I said to my mother 'I guess I will have to die as there is no help for me.' She got me one of your little books and my husband said I should try one bottle. I stopped the doctor's medicine and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It soon made a change in me and now I am strong and do all my work."—Mrs. AUGUSTUS BAUGHMAN, Box 86, Enhaut, Pa.

Why will women continue to suffer day in and day out and drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

ADVENTISTS TO HAVE MEETING AT ANAHEIM

Southeastern California Conference Is Set For August 16 to 26

ANAHEIM, Aug. 8.—Seventh-day Adventists of the Southeastern California conference will hold their annual campmeeting in Anaheim, Aug. 16 to 26. Not less than twelve meetings a day will be held during the session. The principal services will be at 11 a. m., 3 p. m. and 8 p. m., daily. To all these meetings the public is cordially invited by the conference president, Pastor W. F. Martin, of Riverside.

This gathering is expected to be the largest of its kind ever held in Anaheim. Thousands of Seventh-day Adventists will be present from all the principal cities in this part of the state, including San Diego, El Cajon, La Mesa, El Centro, Imperial, Brawley, Holtville, Escondido, San Pasqual, Santa Ana, Garden Grove, Centralia, Orange, Corona, Hemet, Riverside, Redlands, Loma Linda, Colton, San Bernardino, Ontario, Los Angeles, Glendale, Fresno, and Oakland.

Preparations for the big meeting already are well under way, a mammoth three-mast tent having been pitched for the general meetings, and hundreds of smaller tents erected for the accommodation of the campers. This is an annual event with the Adventists. The meeting this year is expected to be larger than formerly, both on account of the rapid growth the denomination is making, and also because widely known Adventists leaders will be present.

Seventh-day Adventists believe the present war, the frequent earthquakes, tidal waves, cyclones and floods, and the unsettled state of society are precursers of the near coming of Christ, and the end of the world, and that there ought to be far more earnest devotion and less frivolity and pleasure-seeking on the part of the masses. They maintain that godliness never can be brought about by law, that religious laws are pernicious, but they believe there should be a voluntary movement on the part of men and women everywhere to read their Bibles more diligently than ever before, and to yield implicit obedience to the precepts and counsel of the Scriptures. They do not urge that the Bible be read in the public schools, but they do urge most strongly that it be read in the homes.

WINTERSBURG

ATTEND FUNERAL OF OLD FRIEND AT BEACH

WINTERSBURG, Aug. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Murdy went to Long Beach Tuesday to attend the funeral of their old-time friend, T. F. Hawkins, who died on Saturday. Mrs. Murdy will remain with Mrs. Hawkins for a couple of days. The two families were near neighbors for years in South Dakota and are very close friends.

The closing service of the camp meeting Sunday night found a large number of people loath to give up Henry Ostrom and his masterful sermons. Wintersburg was well represented each day of the two weeks' series, and by far the majority have nothing but praise for the man who brought them the wonderful message. Services in the local church will be resumed next Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. S. S. Sampson of Corona with their three sons, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. B. A. Farrar at their ranch home Friday. Rev. Sampson is the president of the Methodist Camp Meeting Association, and has been in Huntington Beach for several weeks.

Mrs. G. M. Roberson broke camp at Huntington Beach Monday afternoon and returned home after a pleasant stay of two weeks. She kept open house every day and entertained a large number of people from this neighborhood. Call at her tent almost any time and one would find preparations being made for a big meal, from one to three chickens being dressed at a time, a risky undertaking on a Methodist camp ground. One pleasant affair was the reunion one day of the Farrar-Moore-Roberson family, relatives coming from Riverside, Corona, Orange and Wintersburg.

Earl Farrar has been notified that his order for a Sampson tractor made in June through a Santa Ana firm, would be filled in turn, but that he could not expect delivery until October. Prices have advanced $150 on this make of tractor in the past month or six weeks.

The meeting of the Royal Neighbors which should have been August 1, was postponed until August 8, on account of the illness of several members. The meeting place is at Nathaniel Walton's.

Mrs. J. R. Morgan had the misfortune to step on a rusty nail while hanging out the washing last week, and since Friday has been suffering from its effects.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Gardner and children were dinner guests Sunday at J. D. Shutt's, and later the two families motored to Los Alamitos, taking along some of the chicken dinner for E. G. Radford, whose employment at the sugar factory kept him from being present with the rest of the family. An ice cream freezer was found in one of the autos, and all enjoyed eating ice cream together.

Mrs. C. E. Cleaver and daughter, Miss Ruby Cleaver, returned Saturday from a week's visit at Nuevo with Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Cleaver and family. A. D. Cleaver drove over with them, and will remain several days attending to work at the ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Gothard, accompanied by Miss Lizzie Gothard, drove to Los Angeles early Sunday morning to take George Gothard and Ray Shaffer to report for duty at the army headquarters. They remained with the boys until 7 p. m. An arrangement that will make it easier and more pleasant for the two, is that they will be together, probably in the same tent.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Moore and family motored to Los Angeles Saturday to visit their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Pratt, remaining until Sunday evening.

Miss Mary Philpot of Long Beach came on Saturday to spend the day with Mrs. F. M. Roberson at her tent on the camp grounds. She was accompanied by a friend from Ontario.

Mrs. O. N. Oleson went to Huntington Beach Tuesday to meet her uncle, an old soldier, at the encampment.

Miss Lizzie Gothard is learning the switchboard at the Home Telephone office in Smeltzer, preparatory to doing relief work and later will take the position of night operator.

Mrs. Pierce, who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Clinton Brush, for the past six weeks, returned to her home at Talheim Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Nelson went to San Fernando Friday to look after their crops.

Mr. and Mrs. William Draper of Los Alamitos and their family, were Sunday guests of R. L. Draper and family, remaining to spend the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Dimmock made a trip to the Perris Valley Friday, returning on Monday. They visited at Nuevo and Hemet and had a fine time.

Mrs. Cope and Mrs. Conrad of Alhambra came Friday to attend the camp meeting, guests of Mrs. G. M. Roberson. Mrs. Conrad remained until Sunday.

Miss Charlotte Wise of Los Alamitos is the guest of D. D. Gardner and family this week.

R. L. Draper began plowing out beets for G. M. Nichols Tuesday morning, using his ever-ready tractor.

Mr. and Mrs. Everette Stockton and baby have returned from a month's sojourn at San Juan Hot Springs. They were with Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Lamb, of Talbert.

Mrs. J. D. Shutt was in Huntington Beach Monday in the interests of Red Cross work.

Keith Farrar celebrated his eighth birthday Monday and received several gifts of substantial cash that he promptly deposited in his savings bank to await college days.

Mrs. Perry Wells was the guest of Mrs. R. O. Wells on Monday.

FIGHT WAGED AGAINST TYPHOID BEING WON

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 8.—That the control of typhoid fever in California is being effectively handled by the state board of health is indicated by the fact that in thirty-two counties in the state there have been no deaths from the disease in the first five months of the year, as shown by the board's records.

There have been only seventy-four deaths reported in the remaining twenty-six counties and one-third of these deaths were in the large cities of Los Angeles and San Francisco where about one-third of the population of the state is centered.

In order to co-operate with the counties in the control of typhoid fever the state board of health will furnish physicians with anti-typhoid vaccine free of charge when outbreaks are discovered.

The counties in which there have been no deaths are Alpine, Calaveras, Colusa, Contra Costa, Del Norte, Glenn, Kings, Lake, Lassen, Madera, Marin, Mariposa, Mendocino, Merced, Modoc, Mono, Monterey, Napa, Nevada, Placer, Plumas, San Benito, San Luis Obispo, Shasta, Sierra, Siskiyou, Sutter, Trinity, Tuolumne, Ventura, Yolo and Yuba.

BOOSTER BODY IN EL MODENA MEETING

EL MODENA, Aug. 8.—The meeting of the El Modena Improvement Association was held in the school building, and an interested assemblage heard the excellent talks and discussions.

It is the desire of the directors and officers of the association that people in general attend the meetings, not the directors alone, and express their views and preferences over matters under consideration. The directors present last evening were D. E. Huff, Clate Stanfield, J. M. Brubaker, E. H. Paddock, A. C. Lutz and William Chapman.

Chapman gave a report of his interview with supervisor Fred Struck regarding the village streets of El Modena, and E. G. Hertert suggested that a committee be appointed to look up the title to the streets. The committee is composed of Messrs. Huff, Sanfield and Lutz.

Mrs. D. Eyman Huff, who is Orange chairman of the Council of Defense committee, gave a talk on the all important subject of conservation of foods. She told of the urgent need of every woman doing her utmost along these lines. Two ladies will volunteer to give instruction along the conservation lines such as drying and canning of fruits and vegetables, and other preservative methods.

The talk by W. P. Read, principal of El Modena school, was of very great interest. He has just returned from the San Joaquin valley where he is a land owner, and where he became quite familiar with the possibilities and needs of the rich section.

W. R. Winton, who is a member of the membership committee of the Chamber of Commerce, told of the organization, its benefits, etc., and urged all El Modena persons to become members. He told of the improvement possible to roads, utilities, transportations, civics through such an organization. His talk created considerable enthusiasm with the addition of several names.

The next meeting will be held September 3, when it is again urged that members attend these meetings, as they are for the good of all El Modena.

"The domestic water system of El Modena must be improved upon," was said by one of the directors, and this will be the chief topic for discussion at the next gathering.

HELP WAKE U. S. AIM OF DUTCH CARTOONIST

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Louis Raemaeker, Dutch cartoonist on whose head the kaiser set a price of 12,000 marks, for showing up the Hun in all his frightfulness, is in America and will attempt to rouse Americans to a full sense of the "brutal Boche," driving home his argument with his powerful cartoons.

Raemaeker arrived at an American port recently after playing hide and seek with the German spy system at London and, evading U-boats whose commanders had orders to "get" him.

When seen at the Vanderbilt Hotel he laughingly told how he evaded the Germans who were intent on preventing him reaching America.

He remained in London for several days then jumped over to France, where he apparently sailed on at least a dozen vessels bound for the United States. He would board a vessel late at night. The German spies, seeing him go aboard, would feel satisfied they had him cornered, but early the next morning or a few minutes before the ship sailed Raemaeker would quietly slip ashore and embark on another vessel. In this way he managed to keep the spies on a wild goose chase and eventually sailed unobserved.

Raemaeker told the United Press how Germany and "kultur" blighted Europe. "If the kaiser tried to stop the war today I believe the people would depose him," he declared. "They abused him before the war for not starting one when he alone knew Germany was not quite prepared. Blood and iron are drilled into the German people from childhood. And now by a system of atrocities they are trying to bring about the moral and physical collapse of their opponents to make war so cruel that it will be shortened."

Raemaeker became furious as he discussed Germany. His blue eyes seemed to flash fire. He paced the floor, emphasizing his argument by pounding his fists on tables and chairs. "Germans do not talk about the atrocities committed by their men," he said. "They are too terrible. Yet they are right now planning organized sympathy, for after the war. My idea is to conduct a trial after the war. A just trial where every man's guilt will be tried, just like any criminal. Let no spirit of revenge prevail, but mete out to every man the punishment he deserves for the part he played in the outrage."

"The German spy system is more perfect than their army. Every man is a potential spy."

Asked if he did not feel apprehensive for his personal safety, Raemaeker shrugged his shoulders. "I am armed," he replied. "Again, if they murder me it will only accentuate, only spread what I am trying to teach."

Raemaeker is in America for an indefinite stay and his drawings, of the style that caused the kaiser to place a price on his head, will shortly appear in American newspapers and magazines.

TO HEAR BAIL PLEA IN S. F. BOMB CASES

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 8.—The question of admitting Rena Mooney and Israel Weinberg, bomb plot defendants, to bail, will probably be decided Monday. Three superior judges will sit en banc at the hearing of the application for bail.

SPORTS

By H. C. Hamilton

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—The second of the original crop of white hopes to meet death by violence was marked down when Al Palzer died recently from the effects of a gunshot wound inflicted by his father.

Strangely, it was Luther McCarty, the man who suddenly ended Palzer's ambitions, who was the other white challenger to be taken off suddenly.

Shortly before McCarty met his death in the ring during his bout with Arthur Pelkey, Palzer met McCarty on the coast and was stopped. Previous to that he had been getting along well, although a novice at the fight game. He had leaped to fame in a night by stopping Bombardier Wells, the wonder-boxer from England.

* * *

Shortly after his bout with McCarty Palzer came east, but contracted malaria while training on Staten Island and was forced to give up the fight game. Recently he had been acting as sparring partner for Fred Fulton, and intended soon to return to the ring game.

* * *

Tom O'Rourke, one of the wisest of ring men, was authority for the statement that Palzer was one of the finest heavyweights he had ever seen. A disagreement between them led to an open rupture and resulted indirectly in Palzer's retirement.

Mike Collins, now Fulton's manager, also was piloting big Al and declared he believed Palzer would be ready to stage a very effectual comeback.

* * *

It is not believed President Wilson will ask the big leagues to call off the world's series, but the probability of its being played earlier than usual is very strong. The fact that the draft will be in effectual operation at the time when the games generally are played will be one reason. Shortening the schedules would be easy.

LOS ANGELES PRODUCE MARKET

The upward movement in the potato market continues and another sharp advance in the price of all grades of spuds is expected today. Local stock is now selling for $3.35 a hundredweight and nortnern for $3.50. It is predicted that high prices, high as compared with those in effect a few weeks ago, will continue for probably another two weeks, when there should be a downward movement. There is not a great deal of good northern stock available and locals are getting scarcer every day. Reports from Stockton state that labor shortage has some effect upon prices, by preventing the marketing of the river crop with sufficient rapidity to fill all demands. Values there have moved up substantially the last few days. However, this has been offset to some extent by an improvement in the transportation situation.

Advices from Idaho state that the apple crop there has been badly damaged by the hot spell, and canners are refusing to take on more business.

For the first time in weeks eggs did not climb at yesterday morning's session of the Produce Exchange, the only advance recorded being a rise of half a cent a dozen in pullets.

TOURIST HOTEL PLAN BARED AS PRIZES ARE UP FOR NAME

Bailey Property on Broadway Site of Proposed New Structure

$25 TO BE GIVEN TO WINNERS OF CONTEST

200-Word Articles Also Are Called For In Competition

That a modern, up-to-date tourist hotel is proposed for the Bailey property on North Broadway became known today when it was announced that the citizens of Santa Ana interested in the building of such a hotel had asked the Chamber of Commerce to offer prizes for a suitable name for the hotel.

In connection with the name suggested, a 200-word article is to be submitted giving the writer's idea of the value of a modern tourist hotel to Santa Ana.

It is proposed to offer prizes of $25 for the articles submitted. The best article received will be awarded a prize of $15; $5 each will go to the winners of second and third places.

In making this offer the Chamber of Commerce has reserved the right to publish all or any part of the communication received, but the writer's name will not be used, if so desired.

All manuscripts are to be submitted to the Chamber of Commerce, and those interested are anxious that the matter be taken up immediately. The manuscripts will be numbered in the order in which they are received, and the date of closing the contest will be announced later, according to those at the head of the proposal.

According to those interested it is proposed to make this contest a live affair. They feel that there will be such an interest in the proposed hotel that it will not be difficult to get a large number to compete for the prize.

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR M. D. HALLADAY

Funeral services for Monroe D. Halladay were held Monday afternoon from the Smith & Tuthill chapel. Rev. J. A. Stevenson of the First Presbyterian church had charge of the services.

Beautiful floral offerings were sent by the many friends of the deceased. Mr. Halladay had been a resident of Santa Ana since 1887 and numbered his friends by the scores. The chapel was crowded with those friends of the family who wished to honor the memory of this aged citizen.

Beautiful music was furnished by Madame Manuela Budrow. The pallbearers were old-time friends, Dr. J. F. Doyle, J. P. Wool, Ralph Mead, F. M. Gardner, R. J. Blee and H. E. Smith.

Interment was at the Santa Ana cemetery.

BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

SURVEYOR ASKS COUNTY TO END KELLOGG JOB IN CANYON

Says Contractor Is Nowhere Near Done, and County Must Act At Once

This morning County Surveyor McBride recommended to the Board of Supervisors that it terminate its contract with H. Clay Kellogg for the rebuilding of the highway at Sulphur Slide.

McBride in a written statement declares that unless the county acts, the winter storms will find the work unfinished and endangered by flood.

The matter will be up for disposal this afternoon.

McBride's Letter

County Surveyor McBride's letter follows:

Gentlemen:—In regard to the work under contract by Mr. H. Clay Kellogg in the Santa Ana Canyon, it appears to me that at the present rate of progress the work will not be completed before winter owing to the uncertainty of securing a firm foundation for the sheet piles.

At the northerly end of the contract where Mr. Kellogg told the board that bedrock would be struck at six or seven feet, the pile driving crew drove five piles seventeen feet and were still getting a penetration of one-half inch to a blow, dropping the hammer only two feet. They were compelled to stop driving by reason of the fact that the piles were not any longer. The five piles above referred to have recently been built up and were driven before the concrete had thoroughly set contrary to my instructions and I have directed the superintendent to pull them. There are not any longer piles made up at the present time to drive in their stead.

Owing to the uncertainty of the foundation the long delay in getting the work done I hereby recommend that you close the contract, pay Mr. Kellogg for the work that he completed satisfactorily and that other means be devised to protect the road which will be less expensive and more easily constructed.

Continuing the work as planned by Mr. Kellogg will simply mean a greater financial loss to him—the county paying more good money for a massive concrete wall on a doubtful foundation—and an unjust delay to the traveling public.

If the board wishes to continue the present method of construction I would most respectfully request instructions as to how to get a bed rock foundation as called for in the specifications when bed rock apparently does not exist.

Respectfully submitted and awaiting your instructions.

Contracts Let

This morning bids were received for a kitchen building, kitchen outfit and refrigerator and cold storage room at the County Hospital. The kitchen equipment contract went to the Anglo Range Company for $2357, the refrigerator contract to the Automatic Refrigerator Company for $5707. G. A. Barrows of Santa Ana got the contract for the kitchen building. The bids were: Wilson & Bever, $9862 and $9998; G. A. Barrows, $7237.75 and $7652; E. W. Smith, $8185 and $8379; A. E. Bird, $8244 and $8344; A. Pefley, $10,225; J. S. Fluor, $8192 and $8367; C. McNeill, $9980 and $10,204; C. M. Jordan, $9782.40 and $9826.40.

Lighting Districts

Today petitions for the re-forming of the Garden Grove and Tustin Lighting districts, the organization of which went out of existence with the decision of the supreme court that the law under which scores of similar districts in the state were formed is illegal, were filed today, and each was set for September 5. The Garden Grove District is to be enlarged until it includes an area a half-mile all ways from the center of the town.

Needs Appropriation

Forest Supervisor Sloan of Escondido and Forest Ranger Stephenson of El Toro were before the Board of Supervisors yesterday for a conference in relation to the further improvement of fire-fighting conditions in the Santa Ana mountains.

Sloan stated that the forest service will have no more money with which to build trails and fire-breaks, at least for a time, but that it will continue the administration of the work.

He said that he believed this county should appropriate $2500 for building more trails and fire-breaks in the nearby mountains. The matter was discussed by the supervisors, who said that their attitude toward the forest work was friendly, but that they were not yet ready o say how much the county could appropriate to the forest work the coming year.

IGNITION COMPANY TO ADJUST LIGHTS

The proprietors of the Orange County Ignition Works, who last week made light adjustments for the Southern California Automobile Club, are continuing that work this week at their shop, corner of Fifth and Spurgeon streets. This work will be done both tonight and tomorrow night, the Ignition people only charging a nominal fee to cover the cost of time spent.

About twenty-five machines were tested and lights adjusted last night. "Adjustment of these lights often takes considerable machanical work," said R. L. Howell, secretary of the company this morning. "The late model cars are easily fixed, but in some of the old models the reflectors are often incorrectly shaped, so that the light does not properly focus.

"The light should first be focused into a spot. Then the car should be backed off 75 feet and the light lowered so that the focused spot is below the height of 42 inches as provided in the law. We turn over the names of the owners of the machines adjusted, to the auto club, which issues the certificate to the owner.

BURGLAR TAKES BRIDE'S NEW COAT

Prying off a screen door, burglars last night secured entrance into Joe Staufcek's store at Glorietta and made away with a lot of valuable plunder.

The Staufcek family was only two doors away, where Stephanie Staufcek and Anton Sizek were being married. The burglars evidently realized that nothing would get the proprietor away from his daughter's wedding, and knew that they were safe to continue their pilfering until they got what they wanted.

A number of shawls were taken, and about 75 yards of dress goods, some of which was valued at $1.25 a yard. But saddest of all was the fact that the burglar carried away a new coat which cost $55, the property of the bride.

No clew was secured, and officers are today looking for people dressed up in new clothes.

KAISER IN REICHSTAG NOTICE SEES VICTORY

COPENHAGEN, Aug. 8.—Kaiser Wilhelm has sent the following message to President Kaempf of the reichstag:

"That the spirit which sprang three years ago from the depths of the people's souls and which united the people in the enormous sacrifices of war, is still alive among us is shown when in these days our brave fighters under a great battle leader, have mastered unprecedented attacks and when the country is manfully holding fast, despite sufferings and deprivations.

"Remembering the strength of the people, I am sure they will stand firm until a peace guaranteeing the honor and greatness of the country and its happy, sure future is obtained."

On account of the war and other abnormal conditions, it has been necessary to discontinue much and sacrifice much in the way of art ware. One of the principal things to suffer has been fine dinnerware, china, silverware and the like. Many of the most beautiful patterns are no longer made. Inasmuch as D. L. Anderson Co. had on hand a lot of these charming sets and pieces — now discontinued — they were forced to close them out permanently and finally. This is the reason for their present clean-up sale.—Adv.
